LAKE WORTH, Florida (April 9, 2010)

The Lake Worth Playhouse is proud to be one of a handful of Palm Beach County theatres hosting the 2010 Palm Beach International Film Festival (PBIFF). The festival runs from April 22-26, 2010 and features full-length, short and documentary films from the U.S. and around the world. This is the second consecutive year the Lake Worth Playhouse is participating as a host venue for PBIFF screenings, which will be presented in the Stonzek Studio Theatre.

This year, as a special offering to the community, the Playhouse is selling discounted passes to festival movies and events. Regular pricing ranges from $25 for the "Student Pass" to $500 for the "Platinum Pass," which includes unlimited admission to all films, parties and events. The Playhouse is offering these passes at reduced rates of 20% off for Playhouse Patrons and 25% off for Film Society Members.

"We wanted to make these fantastic Film Festival offerings even more affordable to the community," said Stonzek Studio Manager, Tracy Holstein. "As a neighborhood theatre, we're able to go that extra mile for our valued customers by offering reduced rates and that friendly one-on-one hometown treatment that keeps our patrons coming back again and again!"
