

Ricky Nahas is a musical theatre performer, choreographer and dance teacher from New York City. He has spent the past 11 years performing in national tours, regional theatre and in theatre productions throughout Europe. He recently joined the Lake Worth Playhouse as the lead instructor for the education program. He co-directed and choreographed the Playhouse summer 2010 production of RENT, and has also choreographed Playhouse productions of Oklahoma, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, and Guys and Dolls. Ricky has choreographed middle school, high school and college show choirs, and he has taught musical theatre dance master classes for all ages. His recent performance credits include: Radames in Aida, Mungo Jerry in CATS, swing and dance captain in the Des Moines, Iowa company of Altar Boyz and swing in the National Tour of Saturday Night Fever.